NOMINEES FOR MAYOR

Republicans Name Albert R.
Junkins For Their Standard
Bearer, While Democrats
Select Hon. Calvin
Page.

MAYOR TILTON AND EX-ALDERMAN
JUNKINS HAVE A FRIENDLY CONTEST.

A Lively Campaign Assured From Now Until Tuesday.

The republican mayoralty caucus was held at the old court house on Monday, from four to eight o'clock, and Albert
R. Junkins nominated to head the republican ticket this election.

Mayor John S. Tilton was a candidate for renomination, but was defeated by one hundred and thirty-five ballots.
At four o'clock, William H. Moore, city clerk, called the meeting to order,
and Joseph R. Curtis was elected secretary.

Voting commenced at once and at six o'clock 200 ballots had been cast. From then until the polls closed a steady stream of voters dropped their ballots until 618 were stowed away in the box.
Tellers were immediately appointed and the votes quickly counted. The result was as follows:

|                        |     |
|------------------------|-----|
| Whole number of votes  | 618 |
| Necessary for a choice | 310 |
| John S. Tilton had     | 241 |
| Albert R. Junkins      | 376 | and was declared the nominee.

On motion of Thomas Entwistle a committee of three was appointed to escort the nominee to the platform.

The committee, consisting of Messrs.
Entwistle, Yeaton and Jackson, soon found the gentleman and escorted him to the platform amid the cheers of the assembly.

The nominee-elect made a graceful speech, accepting the trust placed upon him and felt sure of his being elected if all would do their duty.

The best of feeling prevailed all through the caucus and at its close the nomination was made unanimous

MORE FIGHTING WITH THE REBELS

Filipinos Try to Take the Water Works.

Troops Who go to Rescue Spoiled Their Well Laid Plans.

MANILA, March 6.—The rebels have been concentrating in the vicinity of the reservoir.

Today a patrol of Co. G, 2d Oregon volunteers, was taken in ambush. Two men were wounded, but the Oregonians held their ground under a heavy fire until the remainder of the company, assisted by two companies of the 1st Nebraska regiment, flanked the enemy, killing 30 and wounding several more.

After the insurgents had been driven off last night from in front of Mariposa they came back 500 strong, and cut off a company of the 1st Nebraska volunteers.

This morning Gen. Hays sent out three companies of the Nebraska regiment and two companies of the 2d Oregon to dislodge them. The enemy, who were holding a strong position
among the rocks, fired excellent volleys at the advancing Americans, but the latter, by a flank movement, drove the Filipinos over the hills.

No sooner was the fight well under way, than the insurgents to the south of the water works, knowing that the forces there had been weakened by sending troops to Mariposa, attacked the water works in the rear. Their object was to cut off the pumping station,
but they did not succeed.

Their fire was heavy, and our small loss was due solely to the bad marksmanship of the Filipinos. The enemy's dead numbered 20. Returns now in show but five Americans wounded.

The insurgents are placing guns in position at various points.

The opinion of all the prominent men in Manila is that the military force of the insurgent oligarchy must be broken before a stable government can be established in the islands.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IN KITTELY.

presents, among them being a handsome gold watch, full jewelled and hunting

The following order of dances was en-

WILLIE AND HIS PA.

Say Pa.
What is it, Willie?
Joe Hett is a goner now

What makes you think that, Willie?
Ma says she read in the Times how Mayor Tilton and Joe Hett had joined forces and were going after Junkin's scalp. Junkins won at the caucus last evening and Ma says he won't do a thing to Hett.

That's just like a woman, Willie, they never can see through a hole in a fence, and come to think it over there are others.

The people were a little sore on Mayor Tilton, wasn't they, Pa?

Yes Willie, he made trouble in the party.

What was it, Pa?
Why he should have sat quiet when that stonewall trust was being formed and let the gang alone. He ought to have known that the machine would allow no meddling with their street commissioner.

But isn't a mayor supposed to look after the city's interest when the property is endangered?
Not in these enlightened days Willie. When he looks out of a window and sees a man going by with a stonewall on his back he should cast his eye skyward and wonder if it will be fair on the morrow or the no school signal will be sounded.

But that is not honest, Pa.

We were speaking of politics, Willie.

Those ward two aldermen were renominated again, Pa?

Yes, Willie, the machine needs their services again this year. There are ricks to be bought, private sewers to be laid and sand sifted to be thrown in the eyes of the people to affect their eyesight on election day. Those gentlemen earned a renomination, Willie,
and it was rightfully given them.

Wasn't there a good many democrats run through the caucus last evening, Pa?

Yes, Willie, but they had a mission to perform. And besides a man has a right to change his politics. They probably looked around them last evening and saw the familiar faces of City Solicitor Kelley, ward healer Quinn and many others of the gang and thought with those people running things they had as much right to vote there as anywhere.

Will City Solicitor Kelley be rewarded
again this year, Pa?

Yes my boy. The faithful are always looked after.

But he holds the office of water commissioner.

Good men are scarce Willie and the few have to carry a great deal upon their shoulders. They receive their reward in heaven.

Jim Quinn will probably have to bear
his share of the burden, Pa?

Yes, Willie. He will probably have to look after the moneys in the treasury and see that that $19,000 saved is made even money this year.

Well I am glad, Pa, that everything is serene.

Everything is fixed Willie so be a good boy, go to bed early and I will let you get up at 3 o'clock in the morning and see Joe Hett's snow plow go by.

members of the house and senate on that committee to visit him. The visitors were shown over the city and took din-

THE FOG DISPELLER.

AN INVENTION WHICH IT IS CLAIMED WILL DISPEL FOGS.

A Stream of Air is Forced Out of a Tube in such a Way as to Drive a Hole Through the Fog—By the Use of It Pilots Can Pick Up Boats in Foggy Weather.

The latest invention is a fog dispeller. The apparatus consists of a horizontal out-look pipe eight feet in length and eight inches in diameter. At the mouth of the tube is a wide flange; the rear end is covered with a thick disc of glass. About two feet from the rear end a pipe enters the tube from below, at an obtuse angle with the forward section.

This connection is made through a sort of turntable, which permits the out-look tube to be pointed in any direction desired, up or down, from one side to the other. The pipe below connects with a blower down in the vessel.

When the dispeller is in use, the blower sends a powerful stream of air up through the pipe into the tube, and the current hurries into the fog, boring a hole through it, as it were.

The action of the suspended moisture is twofold. The fog is rolled back in every direction, the high pressure of the blast produces a cooling influence, the moisture in suspension condenses and falls in rain. A great cone of clear atmosphere, with its apex at the mouth of the tube, results.

The eye of the pilot is at the glass at the rear of the tube, and he gazes into the bowels of the fog. With its aid a pilot can readily pick up his boats in a fog, and keep an eye out for vessels ahead.

With a powerful blower, the inventor hopes to make the fog-dispeller useful at 1,000 feet.

No claims is made that the dispeller would be practical except when the vessel is going at a slow rate of speed, which is customary when there is foggy weather.

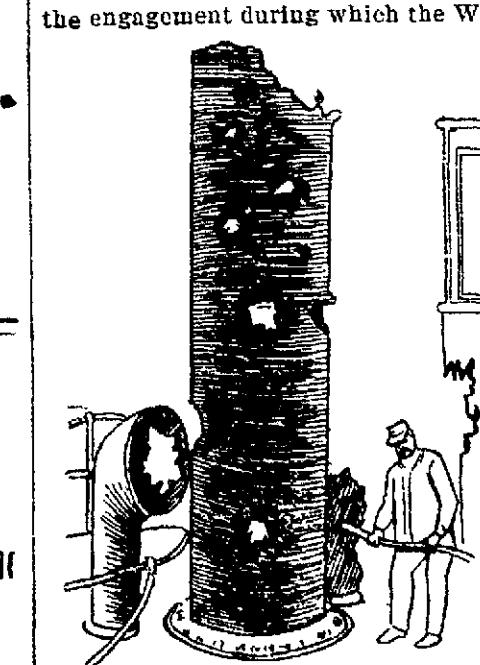

How a Peasant Washed the Tiger.

A story is told, in La France du Nord, about a Cossack, ignorant of the French language and equally ignorant of fear, who was hired, at Moscow, by the lion-tamer, Pezon, to clean the cages of his wild beasts, says Emily Mayer Higgins, in Lippincott's Magazine. Their understanding, or misunderstanding, was arranged by means of gestures and dumb show, as that unfortunate tower of Babel hindered intelligible speech, and Pezon thought that the man thoroughly understood what he had to do. The next morning the Tartar began his new duties by entering, with bucket, sponge and broom, not the cage of a tame beast, as his master had done, but of a splendid, untamed tiger. The fierce animal fixed his eyes upon the man, who calmly proceeded to wet his large sponge, and to approach the tiger. At this moment Pezon appeared upon the scene, and was struck with horror. Any sound or motion upon his part would intensify the danger by rousing the beast to fury; so he quietly waited till the need should arise to rush to the man's assistance.

The moujik, sponge in hand, approached the animal, and, perfectly fearless, proceeded to rub him down, as if he had been a horse or dog; while the tiger, apparently delighted by the application of cold water, rolled over on his back, stretched out his paws, and, purring, offered every part of his body to the Cossack, who washed him as complacently as a mother bathes her infant. Then he left the cage, and would have repeated the hazardous experiment upon another savage from the desert had not Pezon drawn him off, with difficulty.

The Hudson's Smokestack.

This is how the smokestack of the Hudson looked when that battered gunboat returned to Key West after the fight at Cardenas. This was the engagement during which the Winslow was crippled and Ensign Bagley killed. During its progress Lieut. Scott, who was directing the fire from the Hudson, sat calmly smoking a cigarette while superintending the manipulation of the guns.

A Typographical Error.

Through the addition of a single letter to a word by a typographical error a Missouri paper was led to make the following grave announcement the other day: "Sedalia's mayor, having plenty of time on his hands, has decided to begin a war against immortality."

A Military Swimming School.

The German army has a swimming school for troops, where every one must learn to swim. The best swimmers are able to cross a stream of several hundred yards' width, even when carrying their clothing, rifle and ammunition.

COST OF MEAL 500,000,000.

Where the Material Came From and the Investment Necessary for a Meal

Recently a man, who is fond of arithmetic, made up his mind that he would find out how much a dinner really cost. His first ascertained that the dinner he was eating cost seventy-five cents, presumably. He contradicted this, and then made out the following statement about the cost of that simple little dinner.

The pepper, he said, came from ten thousand miles away. It grew on a little bush about eight feet high, which must have had a growth of at least five years. The pepper was picked green; it had to be dried in the sun, and this meant employing women. It took one ship and one thousand miles of railroad to bring the pepper to the United States. The flour of which the bread was made came from Dakota; some one owned the land, and that meant the investing of capital, and then he had also to pay wages to workmen. The flour had to be ground, and the building of the mill, and the plant, or machinery, meant more money invested. The millers had to be paid, coopers had to be paid for making the barrels, and, of course, the wood of which the barrels were made had to be cut and sawed and shaped, and this meant the employing of more men. Then the flour had to be shipped over the railroad and handled again by cartmen before it came into the house.

The tea on the table came from China and the coffee from South America. The codfish had to be brought from Maine. Men had to be employed to catch the fish; then other men and women were employed in drying, packing and boxing it, and, too, had to make a long railroad journey. The salt came from the northwestern part of New York State. The spices in the cake came from the Spice Islands, over in the Indian Archipelago. The canned peaches came from California, and they, too, represented the employment of capital and labor. The simple little dinner represented, directly or indirectly, the employment of $500,000,000 of capital and 5,000,000 men.

Warning to Young Men.

The bicycle face, the quick-lunch face and the war-bulletin face are more recent. The newest discovery in this line is the pipe face, which is grown by men who smoke pipes. The staid old Medical Record saw it first and said this of it:

THE PIPE FACE.

"The habit of smoking the pipe has a perceptible effect upon the face. The pressure of the lips to hold the pipe in position increases the curvature of the lips round the stem, and the muscles become more rigid here than in other parts. Thus the lips at a certain point become stronger and the pipe is unconsciously held in the same habitual position. After long continuation of the habit small circular wrinkles form parallel with the curvature of the lips around the stem. These are crossed by finer lines caused by the pressure of the lips to retain the pipe in position. In the case of old men who have smoked a pipe for years the effect upon the lips is very marked."

An Historic Carriage.

An historic carriage owned by the late Dr. Evans has been offered for sale at the Paris Tattersall establishment, but it was decided at the last moment to retain the vehicle as an item of the estate. In it the doctor left Paris with the Empress Eugenie on Sept. 4, 1870, when he was assisting her to reach England. It is intended by the heirs of the noted dentist to transfer the carriage to the Evans Museum, which is to be founded in America under the clauses of the doctor's will.

The vehicle will be temporarily handed over to the care of the old coachman who drove the Empress, her attendants and the doctor to the coast in 1870, when she was about to embark for England in Sir John Burgoyne's yacht. The vehicle is a landau with accommodations for four persons, and was built in 1867 for the Exhibition. About ten years since Dr. Evans had it reupholstered and remodeled, in order to make a journey to Granville over the same ground as that traversed by him with the Empress in 1870. During that long drive he stopped at the same places en route as those selected on the memorable journey.

A Good Disposition.

Some day it will be found that to bring up a man with a genial nature, a good temper, and a happy frame of mind, is a greater effort than to perfect him in many accomplishments.

"How is it that your baby drops asleep at such a regular time? What do you give her?" "Nothing. Her father just stops slaving to her."

A WINK SAVED HIS LIFE.

Amusing Experience of a Drummer in Texas.

"Speaking of extraordinary feats reminds me," says Henry Austin "of an amusing story Col. W. P. Curtis, who used to be on the staff of ex-Gov. McEnery of Louisiana, once told in the old St. Charles Hotel. It was rather a 'sporty' gathering, and a damp evening, and the 'boys' had been bragging about various wonderful doings they had done in their salad days and frappe nights. When it came his turn to be a gorgeous, circumstantial and statistical liar the colonel leaned away back and said in his sweet Kentucky voice, for he hailed from that state originally: 'Boys, I can't match any of the feats of strength and active valor you have told, but I can tell you a true tale of endurance that may be worth your attention.'

"Years ago, when Texas was the paradise of stage coaches, I was traveling for a tobacco house a long journey, fully fifty miles. In the coach opposite me sat a mighty pretty girl, and a shaggy man, with a sombrero and a small arsenal of pistols in full sight. We had journeyed on for about an hour, and not a word had been exchanged or a look between my fellow-travelers. The girl was everlastingly pretty, and, finally, catching her eye, I was tempted to wink slightly as a sort of preliminary toward breaking the ice and having some pleasant conversation. Instantly, to my horror, she turned to the human arsenal and whispered in his ear. 'Did I understand you, stranger, to wink at this here young lady?' Only presence of mind, as there couldn't be absence of body, saved me. I replied at once. 'Yes, sir, but let me explain. I have a nervous disease of the eyelids. If you had noticed me before you would have noticed that I wink involuntarily very frequently. Honestly, I couldn't help it.' 'Your explanation is extraordinary, stranger, but I accept it for the present,' he answered gruffly, and from that time I think he never took his eyes off me. So, to keep up my part, every moment or two I had to wink one eye or the other, sometimes both. Hour after hour, gentlemen, as I live by champagne, my ocular exercise continued. I believe I am the only living man who ever winked to save his life, and I wink and I want for at least forty miles, till we reached our destination. How was that for endurance?"

Plenty of Land for Settlers.

The idea that Uncle Sam is at present a landless old fellow seems to have gained possession of the people. This is a mistake. Your dear old uncle still holds over 600,000,000 acres of more or less choice land in his own right.

He has still enough land to give each of his 73,000,000 children a nice little homestead of eight acres and have a ranch of more than 16,000,000 acres left for his own use. Uncle Sam's more than 600,000,000 acres are distributed throughout the various States and territories as follows: Alabama, 532,339 acres; Arizona, 54,400,211 acres; Arkansas, 3,922,042 acres; California, 43,841,044 acres; Colorado, 4,037,204 acres; Florida, 1,797,662 acres; Idaho, 45,962,855 acres; Kansas, 1,046,589 acres; Louisiana, 845,050 acres; Michigan, 522,431 acres; Minnesota, 6,240,949 acres; Mississippi, 41,441,220 acres; Missouri, 497,764 acres; Montana, 71,432, 917 acres; Nebraska, 10,669,363 acres; Nevada, 61,578,586 acres; New Mexico, 56,933,047 acres; North Dakota, 21,395,293 acres; Oklahoma, 8,105,238 acres; Oregon, 35, 882, 318 acres; South Dakota, 13, 250,718 acres; Utah, 44, 307,270 acres; Washington, 17,958,536 acres; Wisconsin, 454,107 acres; Wyoming, 49,341,553 acres, and Alaska, 369,529,600 acres.

Statuary Manufactured by Steam.

"The manufacturing of statuary by machinery is made possible by a recent Chicago invention. When fully developed, a machine at present in practical operation, will turn out reproductions of the works of famous sculptors with all the beauty and perfection of the original statue."

This invention has been successfully operated for about three years, but with such secrecy that it is practically unknown outside the few who have been interested in it. Three of the machines are being used at present to reproduce carving in wood, but the step from this use to the reproduction of statuary in stone and marble is a short one. Having brought his invention to its present state, Robert Morgendeler means to perfect it.

The construction of the contrivance is comparatively simple and practically an adaptation of the drawing instrument known as a pantograph. The model to be copied is placed in such a position that guide fingers following the outline of the model carve an exact duplicate in the raw material. The machine covers about seventy-two feet of floor space and stands seven feet high. It is automatic in action and not at all complicated.

Easy Fishing With a Live Wire.

Dore Ogden, a Columbus, Ind., genius, has invented a fish-catching apparatus which promises to excel all previous inventions in that line. A very fine wire extends from a battery near the fisherman through the fishing line to the hook. The fish are electrocuted the second they touch the instrument. In a test in White River several hundred pounds of fish were caught in a few hours.

A Church Built of Paper.

Bergen, Norway, boasts a paper church large enough to seat 1,000 persons. The building is rendered waterproof by a solution of quick-lime, curdled milk and white of eggs.

LIGHTS IN THE PYRAMIDS.

Tomb of the Pharaohs to Be Illuminated by Electricity.

The ancient institutions of Egypt are rapidly giving way to the new order of things. For centuries old methods of transportation have been in vogue unaffected by the rapid strides in other parts of the globe, the camel being the only means of conveyance of freight and passengers, and crude agricultural implements of Biblical times have only recently been laid aside for newer machines. Idle waterfalls have been recently made to turn mill wheels, and where no falls existed the Nile's waters are being impounded for power purposes as well as for irrigation. There are immense stretches of country, until recently unproductive, now covered with cotton plantations, and their product has become of the greatest importance to Egypt. English capital is now building a great storage reservoir near Assouan, in the Upper Nile region, in which will be caught the water of the river during the freshest season, to be released in the dry times. This will feed a great irrigation system, which, it is hoped, will reclaim vast stretches of desert land and what was once a barren waste of sand will be transformed into blooming plantations, growing wheat and cotton. Thus will be restored to the ancient country its old reputation and standing as the "granary of Europe."

The latest and not the least novel of these innovations is the illumination of the pyramids by electric light. Already the trolley car has invaded the ancient precincts, and it is possible to ride to these old structures from several points by electric vehicles. Wires will soon be laid from the Assouan cataract, where a modern power plant will be constructed, to the pyramids, and the interior rooms and passageways as well as the exterior will be ablaze with electric light. Many timid persons have heretofore been deterred from making this trip because of the gloomy interior. The tour was formerly made with the assistance of several natives, who acted as guides and torch-bearers, their flaming lights serving only to enhance the darkness of the passageways.

Novel Automobile.

A particularly novel type of automobile, advertised in an English journal as light and gracefully constructed, is shown in the illustration, which represents a combination coupe and motor tricycle. The motor cycle is detachable from the carriage and can be ridden by itself, but when attached as shown it serves the purpose of a horse. The groom or footman is supposed to sit in the motor-tricycle saddle and to start the combination by two or three turns of the pedals, after which the petroleum-driven motor attached to the rear of the tricycles develops sufficient power to propel the cab without any further assistance. The oil reservoir will hold a sufficient quantity of oil to carry the cab between fifty and sixty miles. The cab is said to hold two persons comfortably.

The Mouse and the Banknote.

A country vicar tells a curious story about a mouse and a banknote. The note, which was left on a shelf in a store-room, always kept locked up, suddenly vanished. The servants were quite above suspicion. The fact that the note had been laid in that particular place and had disappeared, admitted of no doubt whatever. After some search it was noticed that there was a mouse-hole in a corner of the floor. A carpenter was sent for, and a board taken up. A large quantity of minute bits of paper were drawn out, the accumulation, probably, of very many years. Strange to say, in one corner of the heap, a nest of young mice was discovered lying on a banknote! It was uninjured, no portion had been nibbled away, and was the only piece of paper left entire in all the heap. It happened, then, that the mouse had carried the note, folded up as it was, through its hole, and then unfolded and spread it out as a lining to its nest, and had used it as a blanket, evidently conscious of its softness and flexibility. The wonderful part of the story is the leaving of this one piece of paper entire, apparently because it was of a different texture from the rest.

New Industry in Virginia.

A new industry in this country is to be established near Norfolk, Va. It is an institution for extracting the oil from peanuts. The prospectus of the company announces that the product from five tons of peanuts will be 225 gallons of oil, worth 50 cents a gallon; 3, 680 pounds of peanut flour, worth 2 cents a pound, and 3,680 pounds of meal for stock feed, worth 60 cents per 100 pounds, which will make the value of the product $450 for each day's operations.

The peanut flour is used for making bread cakes, etc., which are used in some of the hospitals in Europe. It is claimed that much of the cattle soap of commerce is made from the oil of the peanut, and in that purpose the product of the Virginia mill will be devoted.

No fewer than 1173 persons have been buried in Westminster Abbey.

TRUTH BEATS DIPLOMACY.

The Trap Into Which the Latter Would Have Led Dupuy de Lome.

The late Senator Plumb of Kansas once described diplomacy as "gilded lying." Truth invaded the realm of diplomacy at one point: In the Dupuy letter incident. The Spanish Minister held his own counsel until late in the afternoon of the day his letter to Canalejas appeared in print. It is yet a question whether diplomacy might not have helped him out of the scrape. When the letter was first read in Washington there was general skepticism. Several papers coupled publication with the assertion that it was a forgery, and even quoted the Minister as so branding it. But the surprise to Mr. Dupuy de Lome came when the telegraph boy brought to the legation a cablegram from Canalejas reading to this effect: "I have seen the letter which you are reported to have written to me. It is a base forgery." Mr. Dupuy was amazed. He cabled back: "Is it possible you did not receive such a letter?" Canalejas replied: "I never received such a letter from you or heard you express such sentiments." Then was presented to Dupuy the possibility of denying that he had written the letter and declaring that anything which might be presented purporting to be the original was a forgery. Up to that time the Minister had refused to admit to his friends that he had written the letter. He had no knowledge of the whereabouts of the original. Should he put a bold face on the matter, and, aided by the proof that no such letter had reached Canalejas, deny the authenticity?

What passed in the diplomat's mind that afternoon would be interesting. Late, after the office hours were over, the Assistant Secretary of State called at the Spanish Legation. The tall, blond Anglo-Saxon of the purest type sat down facing the small, swarthy Latin of as pure type. The duel of diplomacy began. "You have seen in the papers, Mr. Minister," said the Assistant Secretary, "a letter purporting to have been written by you to Mr. Canalejas?" Diplomacy would have admitted the seeing and would have fenced for the next point. To the credit of the Spaniard it must be said that he was a man more than a diplomat in the emergency. "Yes," he said, "I have seen it. I wrote it." A moment later he had occasion to realize that truth is better than diplomacy. The Assistant Secretary, concealing any surprise that he may have felt at the quick admission of the point for which he had come, immediately put his hand in an inside pocket of his coat, and drew forth the original letter, asking, "Is this it?" The Minister glanced over the sheets, and at once identified the copy as the original. As he did so there was a ghost of a smile in the corners of his mouth. He must have been thinking of the trap into which diplomacy would have led him but from which truth telling had saved him.

Burglar Trap.

Applications have been made to the Patent Office in Washington for the protection of three inventions to discourage burglary and more especially train robbery. They provide punishments compared with which the tortures of the Inquisition were mere pastimes.

The penalties are electrical. Those who make use of them may choose between scalding a burglar to death, filling him full of lead, or merely shocking him into unconsciousness, if it is not desired to execute him by machinery.

The best device is quite original. It provides for a kind of trap-door directly in front of a safe, placed in such a position that it will be impossible for the burglar to reach the safe unless he steps upon it. Directly he touches this trap the robber will be enveloped in hissing, blistering steam.

The purely electrical protector is more interesting. It can be adjusted so that it will paralyze, maim or kill, as is desired. A powerful electrical battery is connected with a safe. In front of the safe is a steel mat. When the thief stands on the mat and touches the knob or any part of the safe he will receive a shock that will put an end to his energy.

A Novel Business.

In London exists an institution called the pawnier. She is usually a middle-aged widow and flourishes in those dismal localities where every other house is let out in furnished apartments. Many of the people living in these regions are poverty-stricken women who have seen better days and dread to enter a pawnshop. The pawnier calls once or twice a week upon her clients, and when she departs her satchel bulges with sundry articles which she is commissioned to pledge. The business is a paying one. One pawnier boasts a list of 200 customers.

Rule of the War Gods.

The Chinese have a war god which the Government regards as responsible for the successes or failures attending the army. When he is either promoted or degraded, the fact is announced in the Pekin Gazette, which also contains similar statements regarding the other deities. The only weapons allowed the war god are tomatoes and fire crackers, with which to scare the invader.

Manner of Euphemism.

"The secret of eloquence," said the oratorical person, "is not half so much in what is said as in the way it is said."

"Correct," vouchsafed the man with the scrubby chin whiskers. "A verbal promise to pay is nowhere alongside a guttural ooo."

THE HERALD.

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1899.

OBITUARY.

Hon. Charles S. Whitehouse.
The decease of that sterling republican and generous-souled citizen of Rochester, Hon. Charles S. Whitehouse, brings a keen sense of personal bereavement to thousands of friends and followers in this city and county, who became warmly attached to him in the memorable campaign of twenty-five years ago, in which his forceful and manly candor for representatives to congress won the admiration and universal respect of friend and foe political. Though defeated by a close vote in a heavy poll by reason of treachery and betrayal on the part of jealous office-holders and dispensers of government patronage whose loyalty to party was secondary to their selfish subservience to wealthy influence, Col. Whitehouse emerged from the contest unsmirched and untrammelled, and retained to the last day of his useful existence his firm hold on the affections and high esteem of the enthusiastic masses who had faithfully stood by him and who were more than eager to honor him with their suffrages again and again, but were forced to acquiesce most reluctantly in his firm determination to retire from political strife. Afterward, he did accede to the universal desire of his immediate fellow citizens that he become the first mayor of Rochester on its assuming the privileges of a city, which office he filled with signal ability and characteristic discretion. Col. Whitehouse was emphatically a man of the people, a genial and helpful associate and friend, consistent and benevolent in act. Those who knew him most intimately were bound to him by ties of friendship as with bands of steel, instinctively responding to his kindly nature and generous whole-heartedness by equally open hearted esteem and appreciation. It is rarely that a man so prominent in public affairs achieves so creditable and enduring a reputation for candor and integrity. Sorrowing relatives have the sincere sympathy of friends innumerable.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Stetson's big "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company drew a packed house at the Grand opera house last evening. The special scenery, of which they carry a full car-load, was very fine. A good performance of this ever popular play was given. Especial mention is deserved to the many pleasant specialties. The two Topsyes are the best ever seen here and are accomplished dancers. The Lone Star quartet rendered some pleasant melodies in a fine manner. The African mandolin students were called on for four encores.—Reading Eagle.

This will be the attraction at the opera house Wednesday afternoon and evening.

THE COUNSEL OF FRIENDS.

That distress after eating is prevented by one or two of Hood's Pills. They don't gripe.

ARRIVES AT THE SHOALS

Captain Oscar Laighton in command of his new steamer the "Wild Duck" arrived in the offing at Appledore island yesterday afternoon from Boston and saluted the few winter residents there with three whistles. The new steamer is a beauty and Captain Oscar is as proud of her as if she was an ocean liner. The new craft will probably receive quite a shaking up in the gale today.

A BLINDING BLIZZARD.

Terrific Gale Sweeps the Entire Coast Unheralded.

Crew Taken From One Vessel and Another Dragging Toward the Shore.

One of the most blinding snow storms of the winter set in at 7 o'clock this morning and rapidly increased in fury until at noon time when the gale had reached its height and the wind was howling at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The storm came unheralded and it is feared quite a few disasters will be reported as soon as the storm abates. Telephone, telegraph and electric light wires have suffered considerable, and communication with the outside world has been more or less delayed.

Supt. Simpson decided that it was too rough for the school children to venture out and caused the "no school" signal to be sounded at 8:30 and again at 11:30.

Information from Jerry's Point states that the storm is terrific at sea and that the blinding snow makes it impossible to see any distance off shore. The schooner Robert Byron, Captain Hart, from Boston for Rockport, light, was driven in close to the rocks under the battery and it was thought at first that she would come ashore. Distress signals were set in the rigging and Captain Mayo and crew run out their life boat and set off to the rescue. Captain Hart and three seamen were successfully taken from the vessel and brought to the shore. Before leaving the schooner extra anchors were thrown out and it is thought that the vessel will hold if the storm abates before evening.

The Byron is a two masted schooner of 96 tons, owned in Frankfort, Me. and hailing from Camden.

The big four masted schooner William K. Park, Captain Lee, coal laden for this port, lies in a precarious position about three miles south west of Whalesback.

The tug Gladiator made an attempt to reach the vessel this forenoon but the sea was running so high that it threatened to send the tug to the bottom and her captain put back into the harbor for safety.

Captain Mayo of Jerry's Point stated that the schooner was dragging when last seen but the blinding snow storm shut her from sight early in the forenoon. All attempts to reach Wallis Sands or Rye Beach life saving stations by telephone were futile and it is not known whether the schooner went ashore or not.

KELLEY AND QUINN

Dealers in Second Hand Republican Mayoralty Nominations

A little over two short years ago John W. Kelley was one of the democratic ward heisters in ward two, sat alongside the chairman at all the caucuses and assisted in making a small amount of bal lots go a good ways. Since then, for revenue only, he became converted and has been showered with honors and offices by the ring in charge. He was not satisfied with the office of City Solicitor which by the way he abused, but aspired to be county Solicitor. He went to Exeter and saw the don'ts darkening around him. He sent messengers back to Portsmouth for help. He promised any thing and everything for assistance. To Albert R. Jenkins he said, help me and you shall receive the next republican nomination for Mayor. Think of this you republicans who allowed yourself to be led by this renegade. Less than three years in the party and promising the mayoralty nomination as if it were a mere bagatelle. For his lieutenant in this work he chose James Quinn. Quinn holds a position at the water works, Kelley is water commissioner. Quinn, less than two years ago was a democratic ward heeler, for years was a policeman under the old force. Today he is chairman of ward five republican committee. Kelley and Quinn, dealers in republican mayoralty nominations. Sounds nice, doesn't it?

There have been many complaints to the police authorities about the number of loafers who stand in doorways Sunday and after the stores are closed nights and exasperate on the sidewalks and make it unpleasant for a lady to pass such places. ## PORTSMOUTH TO HAVE A DOCK

It Will Be Just Like the New One Contracted for Here

Special to the Herald

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6, 1899. The new stone dock authorized in the naval bill in place of a timber dock will be placed at the Portsmouth Navy Yard the secretary having today decided to locate it there, rather than at League Island or Mare Island.

The design will be similar to that for the Boston dock, and will admit the largest type of warship ever built. Two timber docks are yet to be contracted for, and the plans having been completed, bids will shortly be asked. One goes to Mare Island and the other to League Island. Both will be of the same dimensions, and have a capacity for taking in any type of vessel. The stone dock will cost over $1,000,000, and the timber docks about $700,000 each.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.

Two Ladies Thrown From a Team and Badly Hurt.

Mrs. Charlotte Foss of Rye and her aunt, Mrs. Richard Varrell of Newton, Mass., were the victims of a bad runaway accident on Monday afternoon in which both ladies were quite badly injured.

The horse took fright on Vaughan street and crossed the tracks at terrific speed. In front of the Portsmouth house the two occupants were thrown out and the horse continued on up Maplewood avenue. Willing hands tenderly picked up the prostrated ladies and conveyed them into the hotel office where Dr. Choever was hurriedly summoned. Beyond several bad cuts and abrasions the physician pronounced the two ladies as being all right.

Her funeral occurred on Sunday, and interment has since taken place at Boston. Mrs. Winslow christened the battleship Kearsarge when it was launched at Newport News last spring, having been named for the honor by the secretary of the navy. Mrs. Winslow was a unusually charming woman and a great favorite in naval circles. A peculiar interest was attached to the christening of the Kearsarge, as the Woman's Christian Temperance Union twice requested Mrs. Winslow to perform the ceremony with water than wine. After a somewhat extended consideration of the matter she determined to follow the usual form and break a bottle of wine.

WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

The regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Woman's Exchange will be held at their room on Tuesday, March 7th, at eleven o'clock in the morning.

America's Greatest Medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it was originated and prepared by competent, experienced and educated pharmacists from the best known alternative, diuretic, anti-bilious remedies and stomach tonics, by a combination, proper process and un-known to other remedial agents. It is a record of cures unequalled in the history of medicine. It has accomplished many marvelous cures when all other medicines failed, and even when cure seemed impossible, and really was impossible by any other medicine than Hood's Sarsaparilla. It has effected wonderful cures of scrofula, salt rheum, psoriasis, blood poisoning, boils, pimples, rheumatism, catarrh and other troubles originating in or promoted by impure state or low condition of the blood. It has cured thousands of cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous dyspepsia, gastritis, catarrh in the stomach and other kindred troubles. It has given nerve, brain and mental strength in cases of nervous prostration and nervous debility, cured that tired feeling and loss of appetite.
